PRICE 5 CENTS

You've often dreaded to start a fire in your kitchen range on a hot summer day. The heatings, the smoke, and waste of fuel; the fuel wasted before and after the fire is in use, and worst of all, the tremendous heat that your range gives out from every square inch of its surface?

All this bother, waste and discomfort for just a few moments, perhaps, of simple cooking!

There's a better way. The—

Florence-Automatic Blue Flame Oil Stove

Does every kind of cooking, baking or roasting that your coal range can do—does it as well, more economically, and all in a kitchen delightfully cool, using less than a cent's worth of kerosene oil per burner in an hour. It has no wicks to "draw up"; it gives out no odor; it burns a clear, pure blue flame with all the service, and under perfect control, at the touch of a match or a cigarette. May we show you, tomorrow?

We sold your wise neighbor one today. May we show you, tomorrow?

Do I understand you to say, prisoner, that you knocked him down because he called you a dirty liar?"

"Yes, your honor; I simply couldn't stand it. If there is one thing I have always prided myself on more than anything else it is my cleanliness,"—London Answers.

"What a bright little thing!" exclaimed the society woman, patronizingly cooing at a baby out for a airing in the park.

"Whose, ma'am?" replied the nurse.

"I'm the new nurse that kem yester'dy."

—Philadelphia Press.

He watched his wife doing up her hair and his face was stern. "Why do you put the hair of another woman on your head?" he asked severely.

"Why do you," she replied sweetly,
"put the skin of another calf on your feet?"—Suburban Life.

"What is the use of having a lawn around a farm house?" is a question often asked by people who do not have them. Yes, what is the use of having a house beyond the demands of comfort? Some men who do not have lawns will have many other things needed. A lawn adds beauty to the house surroundings and it is indicated of the kind of man who lives there. A bare front yard with pigs running here and there, old barrel hoops, lots of boards, broken implements and such like do not come within the list of ornaments of a country home.—Geo. W.
Franklin in Farm Sense.

The hansom ordered by a middle-aged spinster was late, and the cabby came in for a good rating when he finally drove up to the door.

"I shall probably miss my train," the late "rate" informed him, "and I shall hold you responsible. I want to know your name, my man. Do you understand?
I want—your—name?"

"The driver clucked up his horse easily. 'You'll make your train all right, madam,' he assured the woman inside. 'And I'll let you have me number if you like. But you can't have me name if that's promised ter another lady."

There's a certain minister whose duties sometimes call him out of the city. He has always arranged for some one of his parishioners to keep company with his wife and little daughter during these absences. Recently, however, he was called away so suddenly that he had no opportunity of providing a guardian.

The wife was very brave during the early evening but after dark had fallen, her courage began to fail. She stayed up with her little girl till there was no excuse for staying any longer, and then took her upstairs to bed.

"Now 'go to sleep, dearie,'" she said,
"don't be afraid. God will protect you."

"Yes, mother," answered the little girl,
"that'll be all right tonight; but the next time let's make better arrangements."—

A number of the leaders were discharged and the men returned to work later in the day.

THE WILY CUCKOO

Fascinating in Choice of Ready Made Nest.

As is well known, the cuckoo makes no nest of its own, but utilizes one built by some other bird, leaving the task of incubation to the future foster-parents. These foster-parents may belong to any small species of bird, such as meadow larks, hedge-parsnips, willow-wrens, wagtails, and others—all very tiny birds in comparison with the cuckoo itself.

The cuckoo must, therefore, lay a very small egg to match those of its host, and for the size of the bird, the cuckoo may be said to lay the smallest egg of any living species.

The procedure adopted by the cuckoo is this: First it lays its egg on the ground, then carries it by beak or claw into the nest of the intended foster-parents, who incubate it along with their own eggs.

It is evident that the cuckoo searches for nests. With a view to testing its proceedings I have, on various occasions placed deserted and empty nests in tufts of grass on ground frequented by the cuckoo. In some cases the trap has been successful and a solitary cuckoo's egg was found lying in the dummy nest. Were proof needed, this would tend to show that the cuckoo needs no assistance from the parent birds in finding nests, and further indicates that she is at no pains to ascertain before depositing her egg, that the nest chosen is destined to be used—Professor Taylor in the June Strand.

SPANISH LAW.

The Brut Give a British Consul in Cuba Some Years Ago.

The impudent character of Spanish law is well illustrated by the following case. Some years ago a young Englishman, a member of an American and Irish sailor, went ashore at Havana. When returning to their ships they were attacked by Cubans. The American struck one of the Cubans on the head with a stick, and the man died. The Spanish authorities did not trouble to discriminate, but sentenced the three men to death.

The British consul, being unaccustomed to Spanish ways, took up the case of the Englishman very strongly. The authorities therupon, possibly to teach him a lesson, tried the men over again and gave them twenty years each.

A lamb died from the butcher and, in dread of his pursuit, dared not remain for the rest of the day at the India house. This story was accepted as a humorous excuse for taking a holiday without leave.

Superstitions of Scalping.

Indians believe that scalping is annihilation of the soul; hence the eagerness of the Indian to secure the scalp of his enemy and save his soul. Depicted on the scalp the body becomes more carnal, not even worthy of burial. "Whether or not it removes annihilates a soul," says General Dodge, author of "Our Wild Indians." "The Indian is yet sure that a scalp is strong medicine and equally sure that its taking by him will involve consequences to him and his tribe. He does not know which Indian will never take the scalp of a colored soldier, nor does he give any reason for it; all to be got out of him by way of explanation is, 'Buffalo soldier no good; bear bad medicine.' Whatever the special religious opinion of each Indian in regard to taking the scalps of white men, I have never yet seen a single case where a scalp of a suicide was stripped off, and in many cases the superstition is so strong as to prevent the Indians even from touching the body."

His System.

"Percy," said his father sorrowfully, "you have been fighting again."

"Yes, father," said Percy. "And you have lost the fight, Percy. That is worse than anything. When I was a boy, Percy, I always won. I had a system by which I always contrived to get in the first blow."

"I did that, father."

"Well, we did it badly. By my system I always hit the boy fairly on the point of the jaw. My system never failed."

"Yes, father, but suppose when you hit the boy on the point of his jaw he fell into a pile of bricks and got up with a brick in each hand, how would you have continued your system when you were a boy?"

"Percy," said his father, "you seem to have a quarrelsome disposition. Let your father be a lesson to you. Now run away and play."—Percy's.

Nature's Rite Bullets.

What man has learned by dint of thought and experiment some of the lower animals appear to know through instinct. An instance is furnished by what is called the "spiral swimming" of certain organisms such as the spherical and ciliated and several elongated Infusorians. As these relate about the axis of progression in the manner of a projectile fired from a rifled gun, the consequence is that they are able to travel in a straight line as they could not do otherwise, the revolution compensating with absolute precision for any tendency to deviate from a straight course. With out such a device many of these minute creatures would simply describe circles, making no forward progress.

Guarding Its Own Goods.

Honesty, in its purpose, looks but the outside of itself; however, it only aims to secure the good opinion of the best, and becomes anguish in the moral stain or blemish than in grievous bodily wounds. Honesty guards its own goods, and loves self interest, while it gallantly protects the weak, relieves the oppressed from the grasp of cruel force, redresses the injuries of others or defends its own pure dignity.—Albert Matthews.

An Enthusiasm.

"Does the public of Crimson Gulch remember my previous visit?" asked Mr. Stormington Barnes.

"It does."

"And is it waiting to receive me with open arms?"

"Not exactly open arms. It looks more like a case of concealed weapons."—Washington Star.

Good Impulse.

A mere good impulse that does not result in good works is rather worse than useless, for if not carried out in deed it has a reaction instead of an action as its outcome.

Fissures in the Rockies.

In some of the high plateaus or mesas of the Rocky mountains there are to be found a short distance from the edge cracks or fissures not more than four or five feet deep. During the terrific blizzards that rage in the winter these crevices are filled to the level, and cattle and horses which are not acquainted with the country frequently drop into them, their struggles only causing them to sink deeper and deeper. The cracks, into which the sun never penetrates, are like refrigerators, and the naked bodies, who death has come to their suffer, become to all intents and purposes mummified.

Gazette

AND TRANSCRIPT.

WEYMOUTH, MASS., FRIDAY, JULY 14, 1911.

VOL. XLV. NO. 17.

PRICE 5 CENTS

You've often, dreaded to start a fire in your kitchen range on a hot summer day. The kindlings smoke, the soot, the ashes to bother with; the fuel wasted before and after the fire is in use; and worst of all, the tremendous heat that your range gives off from every square inch of its surface!

All this bother, waste and discomfort for just a few moments, perhaps, of simple cooking?

There's a better way. The—

Florence-Automatic Blue Flame Oil Stove

Does every kind of cooking, baking or roasting that your coal range can do—does it as well, more conveniently, and all in a kitchen delightfully cool, using less than a cent's worth of kerosene oil per hour in an hour. It has no wicks to "draw up"; it gives out no odor; it burns a clear, pure blue flame with all the service, and under perfect control, at the touch of a match and the turn of a lever.

We sold your wise neighbor one today. May we show you, tomorrow?

Sometimes old strawberry beds will pay to keep for another fruiting.

Do not allow a dying or worthless tree to stand in or near an orchard.

Watch for the little slugs—darkish, slimy fellows—that are likely to be on your cherry trees now.

Grape vines planted this spring should have but one shoot allowed to grow.

If a new peach, apricot or plum tree develops yellow or blemish, immediately destroy it.

White-washing the interior of the poultry house will not rid it of lice unless a little carbolic acid is added to the wash.

The farmer who makes milk production his business is a dairymen and he needs
the best of dairy cows.

One coffee cup of salt to one gallon of water well sprinkled on the cabbage will kill the worms and not injure the cabbage in the least.

Thousands of kind-hearted men injure their horses by overfeeding. It is not what the horse eats, but what he digests, that counts.

Reduce the grain as warm weather comes on and give more meat and bone.

Avoid that which contains a large proportion of fat. It is best meat which gives the best results. It is safe to eat all kinds of meat. Outfit free. Terrible misfortune can be avoided. Apply quick.

The time has now arrived when according to the laws of the state, any person may, and certain officers shall kill any dogs running at large and not properly marked.

It has been hot in Washington the past week both politically and otherwise, but Senator Lodge has kept cool enough to do a good thing for Weymouth. He has succeeded in making quite a favorable advance with the Back River Bridge Bill which failed to reach the president last year in time for his signature. The bill by the efforts of one senior senator is now before Congress again with a favorable outlook and recommends a government appropriation of $30,000 with the other $30,000 to be apportioned on the towns and cities more directly interested.

The thermometer has dropped twenty degrees and the weather man promises us a continuation of more bearable weather but we are never fully satisfied. What we want next is a rise in the barometer and a day or two of a nice slow rain.

The country press of New England, and we may well say of the Nation, has lost from the ranks of managers and editors one of its brightest and most esteemed members. Thirty-eight years ago Hyde Park joined the society of towns in the commonwealth of Massachusetts and at the same time there came into existence the Hyde Park Gazette with Samuel A. Mosley as its head, and for thirty-eight years he has been an important factor in the municipal affairs of his town and a decided success in giving to the town and the world a clean, bright and wholesome journal. "Sam" is a ready man to grasp all situations, a man with courage equal to his convictions and above all a mind large enough to steer clear of petty personalities. Mr. Mosley will be missed from journalistic circles but his many friends with him joy in his retirement and a long enjoyment of the rest he deserves.

DO NOT BLAME NEWSPAPER.

That the clergymen appreciate the influence of newspapers as keenly as any class of professional men in this country is evident from the frequency with which they allude to them in their sermons. Here is what Rev. F. Stanly Bowles of Milwaukee told his congregation on a recent Sunday evening:

"We as citizens of the metropolis of Wisconsin do not half appreciate what our newspapers are doing for us. We criticize, when nine cases out of ten we ought to give them credit for the effectiveness of their work in molding public opinion. Co-operation and not denunciation should be our policy. It exerts much power for good and if the epoch of today is looking forward to a factor for good, it must acknowledge this in every phase of life."

"Our press does exert a moral influence and many of its editorials are splendidly sensible. Its exposing graft and denouncing crime and unscrupulous political schemes, as it now does, is proof of itself that it is decidedly favorable to morality."

That our clergy fully realize that co-operation and not denunciation is needed to improve humanity, then shall we appreciate what the press is doing for our city. We have not an editor in the city but who is willing to cooperate with us in making his paper one of power for good if we show ourselves to be in the right attitude for harmony."—Publishers' Auxiliary.

Corporation Ring.

The sailor always wears a corse ring. This is a plain band of silver or gold, and part of the sailor's name and rank is engraved on it. The purpose of the ring is to identify the sailor in case of death by drowning through shipwreck, etc. The shellback sailor can never swim, and he looks forward calmly to dying suddenly beneath the sea. In fact, he usually prefers such a death to a lingering one in hospital.—Buffalo Express.

Legs That Hear.

One of the strongest and most unexpected of the facts to which we could imagine a leg as being put is that of an organ of hearing. Yet such seems to be one at least of the functions of the fore legs in the cricket. On the outer side of the tibia a small oval space may be seen, in which the strong armature which covers the rest of the body is reduced to a thin and membranous condition, making thus a sort of windbox or drumstick. Communicating with this, inside the leg, are the ends of a nerve, and it can hardly be doubted, therefore, that he whole apparatus constitutes an auditory organ.

A Curious Boat.

According to a Chinese legend, there lived in China 200 years before Christ an artist named Kao-Ping, who wove an immortal reputation over the fact that he was able to fashion out of a bean pod a boat, complete with rudder, sails, mast and all other necessary appurtenances. Moreover, on the exterior of the boat were engraved various maxims by Confucius. For this masterpiece, it is said, the Emperor Tsi Po paid him 1,000 taels.

The Dog and the Fleas.

Dogs frequently realize the difficulty of separating the animals from the fleas which often inhabit them. Few of the older methods are entirely satisfactory, but a Chicago electrical man is authority for the statement that the use of the vacuum cleaner is most efficacious.

An Extraordinary Family.

Long Brookleigh comes of an extraordinary family. She has never heard of any member of it who was an ordinary street dweller or a great criminal. But there is a record that anyone belonging to the house of Brookleigh ever married a copy.

CRYING FOR HELP.

Lots of it in Weymouth but Daily Growing Less.

The kidneys cry for help. Not an organ in the whole body so delicately constructed.

Not one so important to health.

The kidneys are the filters of the blood.

When they fail the blood becomes foul and poisoned.

There can be no health where there is poison blood.

Backache is one of the first indications of kidney trouble.

It's the kidney's cry for help. Need it. Does Kidney Pills are what is wanted. Are just what overworked kidneys need.

They strengthen and invigorate the kidneys; help them to do their work; never fail to cure any case of kidney disease.

Mrs. J. Boyle, 8 March street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and can say that they are unequalled for kidney troubles. They built up my system and in six weeks freed me from kidney complaint from which I had suffered for a long time."

Windows of the Soul.

Eyes are born as lions, roving, running, leaping, leaping, here and there, far and near. They speak all languages; they wait for no introduction; they are no Englishmen; as no leaves of age or rank; they respect neither poverty nor riches; they are not afraid of vice, nor virtue, nor sex, but intrude, and come again, and go through and through in a moment of time. What inundation of life and thought is discharged from one soul into another through them—Emerson.

Remarkable Case.

"How much your little boy resembles your husband!" said the cunning politician.

"I've always heard," she replied, "that people grow to look like those they are much with, but this is quite a remarkable case. We only adopted the little fellow last week."

In His Interest.

The Optimist.

"You're looking blue, doc. What's the matter?"

"Well, I'll tell you. A patient I began to treat died this morning."

"Ah, cheer up. He might have died even if you hadn't been called."—Toledo Blade.

Wit in Extremis.

Of the men of letters who lost their life on the scaffold two at least died nobly.

Wit was Montrose, poet and king in Scotland's king versus the English king. On the morning of his execution Warristown, the countenance, went to his cell, doubled to make himself unpleasant. Montrose was combed out his curles.

Wit is James Graham so careful of his looks?

He was pulled and made answer:

"So long as my head is my own I mean to see it to. When Warristown comes, it may deal with it as he likes."

"I'll shift for myself coming down," the poet promised—Yours Companion.

AND TRANSCRIPT.

WEYMOUTH, MASS., FRIDAY, JULY 21, 1911.

VOL. XLV. NO. 18.

PRICE 5 CENTS

You've often, dreading to start a fire in your kitchen range on a hot summer day. The kindlings, the smoke, the soot, the ashes to bother with; the fuel wasted before and after the fire is in use; and worst of all, the tremendous heat that your range gives off from every square inch of its surface!

All this bother, waste and discomfort for just a few moments, perhaps, of simple cooking?

There's a better way. The—

Florence-Automatic Blue Flame Oil Stove

Does every kind of cooking, baking or roasting that your coal range can do—does it as well, more economically, and all in a kitchen delightfully cool, using less than a cent's worth of kerosene oil per burner in an hour. It has no wicks to "draw up"; it gives out no odor; it burns a clear, pure blue flame with all the service, and under perfect control, at the touch of a match and the turn of a lever.

We sold your wise neighbor on today. May we show you, tomorrow?

WEYMOUTH GAZETTE

AND TRANSCRIPT

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY BY THE

Gazette and Transcript Publishing Co.

WEYMOUTH, MASS.

M. E. HAWES,

Editor and Manager.

Telephone 145, Weymouth.

Subscription Price $2.00 per year in advance.

Post Weymouth Office: Washburn Block, corner of Broad and Shawmut Streets.

Entered in The Post Office At Weymouth Mass., As Second Class Mail.

FRIDAY, JULY 21, 1911.

The Gazette & Transcript is printed and mailed Friday afternoons, and is for sale at all news-stands in the Weymouth and at the South Terminal, Boston.

All communications must be accompanied with the name of the writer, and unpublished communications cannot be returned by mail unless stamp is enclosed.

Notices of all local entertainments to which admission fees are charged must be paid for at regular rates, 10 cents per line in the reading matter, or regular rates in the advertising columns.

By reading our few items called from records of 1857 and 1890 it will be seen that history repeats itself in the year 1911, and the repetition can not be charged to men who have long since "ceased from their labors." Some of the men of long ago used to steal vegetables from gardens and fruit from orchards, some kept dogs without license, number or collar and some even used water in violation of rules laid down by the Water Commissioners.

The legislatures of the states of Massachusetts and New York have just increased the pay of their members. In this state it is raised from $750 to $1000, while the house does not appear to the public legislature. A good legislator is worth $1000 and even in the present house and senate there may be found such men and instead of taking seven months to earn the $1000 could, would, have done it in three or four months, relieved the state of much time and expense and gone home to attend other duties.

We are frequently asked what is the tax rate or what is it going to be, and in reply we would say, that at the time of writing, with the exception of a few smaller towns which have guessed at a tax rate, no cities or towns have issued a tax rate for the year 1911, nor can they with any degree of accuracy until the legislature of Massachusetts has got to the end of appropriation so that the State tax may be made up. Counties, cities and towns are waiting to hear from Beacon Hill and if our taxes are not materially less than in 1910, it will be on account of the State tax.

DROWNED IN BACK RIVER.

Body of Man Awaits Claimant.

Last Saturday morning the body of a man about 50 years of age was found in Weymouth's Back River near Bradley's Wharf in Fort Point. Medical Examiner Dr. C. Fraser was called and pronounced death due to drowning.

The body was ordered to be taken to Willard J. Dunbar's undertaking rooms where it was washed and dressed and was identified as one of the deceased.

It is thought the body is that of Cornelius Griffin who came to North Weymouth from Cambridge to work at the American Agricultural and Chemical Works at North Weymouth. Griffin was last seen on Wednesday evening, July 12, and seemed to be in a dazed condition from the heat and it is thought he walked off the wharf into the water in his dazed condition.

TUFTS LIBRARY.

ART EXHIBITION.

There are now in the Reading Room pictures representing historic dress in America.

These illustrations are taken from the book written by Elizabeth McClellan, published in 1901. It is a complete history of all forms of costume worn in this country from the time of the earliest settlers to the year 1850. As the early colonists came from England, Spain, France, Holland and Germany, the pictures are in some cases taken from portraits or costumes of people of the same rank in Europe. The illustrations were specially drawn or photographed for this publication, and, with few exceptions, directly from the garment itself. The book, with numerous smaller illustrations and most valuable text, accompanies the set.

The pictures will remain until August 7.

Invaluable.

"They ain' no takin' to a woman," said Charcoal Ely as he emerged from a dispute with Mrs. Charcoal. "She done bound t' git 'em weepin' an' hammin' yo' wid a flatiron, believ' me! Han' me do hee h'minent, Miss Jackson!"—Baltimore Sun.

Scientific Farming.

An example of scientific farming, a farmer in Oxford harvested 200 bushels of grass-peas in the summer, dried them and kept a big lot of chickens on 'em through the winter.

Following Are a Few of the Items Which Appeared in the Gazette Years Ago This Week.

SOLDIER AT REST.

Post No. 58 G. A. R. Buries Another Comrade.

THIRTY FOUR YEARS AGO.

The annual plundering of the vegetable gardens has commenced, and many owners of gardens have recently suffered from these depredations.

Moore John Ford and T. J. McCormick have commenced the undertaking business, and have procured a new and elegant carriage of Brownell's manufacture, New Bedford.

The South Boston Ice Co. who now run the ice house at Great Pond, are sending off from this place about 700 tons a week.

A Sabbath school concert was held at Union Congregational Church, Sunday evening. The subject was "Trees of the Bible." There was some very good singing by a quartette, consisting of Miss Fannie Sprague, Mrs. S. Rogers, Deacon Pratt and Mrs. A. B. Smith.

One day last week Samuel Ross killed a rattlesnake on the premises of Messrs. Barnes Bros. of Lovell's Corner, the snake having seven rattles. The reptile was despatched by a shot from a gun.

Seventeen new dwellings are to be erected between this time and September 1st within a mile of Shaw's Corner. The work is in the hands of eight or nine different builders.

Monday evening, shortly before eight o'clock, the rendering establishment of Charles H. Pratt, situated near Wharf street, and north of the S. S. R. track, was discovered in flames, and together with its contents was quickly destroyed.

The Engine Company held a meeting in the Reform Club rooms last Tuesday evening at which time they voted to accept the by-laws. The company has its full number, 50 men, which the town allows.

A committee on procuring suits for the company was chosen; Willard J. Dunbar, John W. Tirrell and Robert F. Shaw.

The Engine Company received a committee on erection of engine houses in Weymouth, were opened last Friday, when it was found that Charles Simmins of East Weymouth, was the lowest bidder, his offer including the four houses, which he offered to build for $5,120. The other bidders were Henry Gardner, $7,000 for the four; Wm. P. Marion, $1,203.75 for one or four; for $5,575, J. E. Rice & Son, $1,830 for one, in Ward 2; Geo. A. Cushing, $1,600 for one, or four for $6,200; Henry A. Peterson, one in Ward 3 for $1,830; Charles H. Chubbuck, one for $2,750; John Seabury and P. Garcelon, one for $1,350.

Twenty ONE YEARS AGO.

The Carpenters Union of Weymouth contributed $22 to the eight hour strikers in Boston last week.

The Bates school building is undergoing thorough repairs and is expected to be in pretty good order when the fall term opens.

South Weymouth is doing well but she ought to do much better and double the number of shares in the co-operative bank.

Much dissatisfaction is expressed by the residents of King Oak Hill in regard to the supply of water. During the past week it has been difficult to get enough for domestic purposes.

Numerous complaints are being made because the dogs are not muzzled. Reports of dogs running mad in this and other towns cause parents much anxiety and they think it is high time the matter was attended to.

Lawn sprinklers are a very useful article and if people who own them would only arrange them so that people could pass by on the sidewalk without being wet through, they would receive the thanks of the walking public.

The old adage that "patient waiters are no losers" has once more proved true.

Last Friday afternoon word came from Washington telling Walter Sladen that he was appointed post master of an office to be established here and to be known as the North Weymouth Depot Post Office.

The average daily use of Weymouth water at the present time is 4,500,000 gallons—over 400 gallons to each inhabitant, and involving so large an amount of pumping to maintain sufficient pressure for keeping up a supply for household purposes, that the Water Commissioners have been compelled to restrict the use of hand hose on lawns and gardens to two hours per day, which rule will be strictly enforced.

THE KING CAN DO NO WRONG.

Neither Can He Ever Die, According to British Law.

It is a curious feature of British law that the king never dies, or, to put it in another way, it would be useless for any barrister to argue that the ruler's predecessors have really died, since the utmost the law will admit is that there may be a "desire of the crown," meaning, of course, simply that there has been a transfer of the royal authority from one person to another.

The day passed without incident, but as the sun went over the strain of the situation began to tell on the nerves of the defenders. Presently, however, there was the sound of hoofs on the highway, approaching rapidly. Such was the mind of the defenders that the sounds appeared to indicate the approach of the enemy. At once the volunteers conceived the idea of lighting the road and touching the fuse in time to annihilate the foe. The road was plenty of powder, and the scheme was adopted. The rest of the defenders stood some on one side of the road, some on the other, ready to discharge their rifles into what might be left of the foe.

PRICE 5 CENTS

You've often, dreaded to start a fire in your kitchen range on a hot summer day. The kindlings, the smoke, the soot, the ashes to bother with; the fuel wasted before and after the fire is in use, and worst of all, the tremendous heat that your range gives out from every square inch of its surface!

All this bother, waste and discomfort for just a few moments, perhaps, of simple cooking!

There's a better way. The—

Florence-Automatic Blue Flame Oil Stove

Does every kind of cooking, baking or roasting that your coal range can do—does it as well, more economically, and all in a kitchen delightfully cool using less fuel than a cent's worth of kerosene, and all in hours. It has no tricks to "draw up"; it gives out from every square inch of its surface!

GATHERED UP.

"That boy got his brains from me."
Well, someone got them from you,
that's a cinch."

"I see where a New Jersey man says that he is happier in jail than out of it."
"Well, why doesn't he try another State?"

A girl swimmer, who saved two men from drowning, is going to marry the other. Her sister is going to marry the other. It was very kind of the heroine in such an exciting situation to save a man for her.

The British gentleman next to our shores stepped up to the cigar counter and requested of the "dark" a cigar.

"What will you have, a bit cigar?"
asked the "dark."
"No; I'd rather bite it myself," replied the Briton.

"There seems to be a penalty for everything except stealing man's daughter."

"There's a penalty for that, too."
"What is it?"
"Hard labor for life."

Munich has been visited by a thief with a sense of humor. Several days ago all the clocks in the ministry of railways came to a standstill. The central or "master clock," which controls all the others, had been stolen. In its place was a sheet of paper with the words, "Time was made for slaves."

"When you see a man kicking his head off at a ball game, calling the local team down to 'perdition,'" says the Stoneham Daily Enterprise, "just sit next to that man when the ball is passed around, and in nine cases out of ten he chips in nothing or puts in a quarter and takes out 15 or 20 cents."

"True elsewhere."

"Yes, the girls gave the bride a com-miseration shower."

"What is the world that?"
"Why, they all told her how sorry they were she was going to marry such a man as the coming bridegroom."

"That must have hurt her feelings."

"No, it didn't. She knew there wasn't a girl there who wouldn't have given her eyes to get him!"

"What did you do when your husband told you the old, old story?"
"I told him to shut up before he was half through."

"Why, what a funny way to reply to a confession of love!"

"Oh, is that what you mean?" I thought you meant the story he told last night when he came home from a trip with the boys."—Houston Post.

It may not prove a bad investment of time or money, instead of scouting at the boy's pet schemes, prohibiting them outright, or even tolerating them grudgingly, to invite his confidence by co-operating with him. If the bloated pigeons makes an unusually quick flight, if the canoe hasn't a leak when launched, if the ice-boat sails with the grace of a bird—why, enjoy it with him. After all, it's only a year or two since you were a boy.

"What young woman had spent a busy day?

She had browbeaten fourteen sales people, ballyhugged a florist, argued victoriously with a milliner, laid down the law to a modiste, nipped in the bulb at a taxi chauffeur's attempt to overcharge her, made a street car conductor stop the car in the middle of a block for her, discharged her maid and engaged another and otherwise refused to allow herself to be imposed upon.

Yet she did not smile that evening when
a young man begged:

"Let me be your protector through life!"

The advertiser who had received a free publ. entered the provincial office with anger and disgust written all over his face

"I'm sure you meant it," said he, "but that's a nice thing you've gone and printed in your paper about my business."

"What's a nice thing?" asked the editor.

"Read it and see."

The editor read: "If you want to have a fit
we're bound to do it."

The young woman had spent a busy
day.

She had browbeaten fourteen sales

Light Men.

At a certain hotel in Liverpool an Englishman, an Irishman and a Scotman were arguing as to which of their respective countries had the highest men.

The Irishman led the argument by saying we have men of Cork!

"That may be," said the Scotman;

"but we have men of Ayr."

"Well," said the cockney, "that is very light, but we have 'lighter' men on the Thames."

My husband," sobbed Mrs. Prival,

"is the most contrary kind of a man."

"How so?" asked her sympathetic friend.

"Why, every time," responded the aggrieved wife, "I tell him to dress up, he is sure to give me a dressing down."

Officer Lawrence Scollard discovered the fire and rang in an alarm and for while the fire threatened to destroy other buildings in the vicinity on account of the high wind which was blowing at the time.

—Young Marshall promptly brought suit, at which Haskin smiled. When judgment was obtained, Marshall rode out in person to Haskin's place and demanded payment, at which Haskin hunched his shoulders.

—And while Haskin checked the keen eye of the young lawyer who was about the farmyard, he saw one plow, which was exempt under the law; also one harrow, also exempt; also a huge plowshare of a pig drowning ready in a pond.

—That's the only pig I got," volunteered Haskin, reading the lawyer's thought, for Haskin also knew, that under the statute he was entitled to one pig exempt from debt.
